DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 and 372.

This application contains the following inventions or groups of inventions which are not so linked as to form a single general inventive concept under PCT Rule 13.1.

In accordance with 37 CFR 1.499, applicant is required, in reply to this action, to elect a single invention to which the claims must be restricted.

Group I, claim(s) 1-21, drawn to a traffic analyzer and a method of using the traffic analyzer to monitor success service usage by subscriber per specific service through analysis of data packets to and from the subscriber.

Group II, claim(s) 22-31, drawn to an apparatus and a method for monitoring the communication network by monitoring linking devices between the subscriber and the service server based on success and failure rate in accessing the linking devices.

Group III, claim(s) 32-43, drawn to an apparatus and a method for generating billing information in which the fee is applied per specific service used by the subscriber through an analysis of destination IP address and port number of data packets to find the specific service usage.

The inventions lack unity because of the following reasons:

Inventions I, II, and III do not have a single general inventive concept. Group I has an inventive concept of determining what services are accessed successfully by the subscriber by monitoring data packets (requesting services and matching data packets responding to such request). Group II, on the other hand, has an inventive concept of monitoring the communication network in which all the data packets travel through, which requires a different technical feature, such as monitoring success rate in accessing each linking device within the communication network, from ones that are required by group I and III. Group III has another inventive concept of creating billing information based on each specific service used by each subscriber which requires yet another technical feature not required by group I and II. See MPEP 1893.03(d) and 37 CFR 1.475.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a species or invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention or species may be made with or without traverse. To preserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse.

Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected invention.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions or species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions or species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

A shortened statutory period for response to this action is set to expire thirty days from the mailing of this communication. Failure to respond within the period for response will cause the application to become abandoned (35 U.S.C. 133). Extension of time may be obtained under provision of 37 CFR 1.136(a).
